A Strange Story.

Several years ago a little German Jew, named Schwartz, believing that in the sewers of New York might be found many articles of value which had been lost, entered them, and for three days wandered through the labyrinth. He was very successful, picking up some $27,000 worth of jewelry, spoons, forks, &c., but having lost his way the third day, he believed that he might have found much more could he have carried out the original plan, which was to visit Fifth and Madison avennes, the wealthy portions of the city. His adventure for a time created quite a little sention, but there were none venturous enough to attempt a second, until Wednesday of last week, when an adventurous party of three entered the sewer of Houston street, at the ferry on East river, intending to remain for one week, during which time they proposed visiting every portion of the city where there seemed to be any chance of finding treasure trove. The party consisted of Miss Mary Walker, a young lady of eighteen, her brother James aged sixteen, and Michael Grady, an old man of about fifty. The project originated with Miss Walker, and the "how" of it is in this wise: Some two years ago James Walker, Jr., was a merchant, doing a good business at 99½ Bowery. He was getting rich fast, but in an evil hour he was prevailed upon by friends (?) to use some of his money, which had been "salted down," in speculating in gold. The result was easy to be foretold. He lost. To recover he took money from his business. Again he lost. His business became embarrassed; in despair he committed suicide, and Miss Walker and her brother found themselves six months ago the inhabitants of a room on the upper floor of a double tenement, 209 Sixth street. Miss Walker, some months ago, in an old paper, wrapped around a parcel which she was taking home from a "slop-shop," saw an account of Schwartz's undertaking, resolved to imitate it. Maps were obtained and the city studied carefully. Each day's work for herself, her brother and Grady, who was formerly in her father's employ, was carefully marked out. Every preparation which limited knowledge could prepare for was made, and the adventurers started. Each day they rendezvoused several times in the chambers at the street corners. On Sunday they had filled all the bags they had taken with them, some fifteen in number, and Miss Walker returned. James Walker and Grady continued the search, emptying six of their bags at the corner of Twenty-second street and Fifth avenue. On Wednesday morning at a very early hour, and before people were stirring, Miss Walker was at the place with a wagon. On removing the iron plate, which at each street corner leads into a small chamber connecting with the sewer, she found her brother, but not Grady. He had started off on another trip, although the six bags had been filled in Madison avenue. The loose treasure was placed in extra bags and the whole driven to a Broadway jeweler's. The rest was taken from the places on Thursday morning. A watch was set for Grady, but up to this time of writing nothing has been heard from him, and it is feared he has perished. The result of the week's search is roughly estimated at $1,500,000. I saw the treasures yesterday piled in three heaps on the floor, and the jeweler informed me that it must have cost over $3,000,000, but in consequence of the old fashioned style of setting, its bruised, battered, and corroded condition, its value was reduced about one-half. A little over a bushel (how queer it sounds to talk of jewelry by the bushel) has been sorted, and among it has been found one diamond ring valued at $16,000, two more valued at $5,000, and half a dozen valued at $3,000 and upwards. The most curious is a plain gold ring, inscribed on the inside in Dutch, "Peter Stuyvesant, to wife." It is an heir-loom of Stuyvesants, and was stolen, with other jewelry, last March, by burglars. How it came in the sewer is a problem for philosophers to speculate about. Miss Walker and her brother, who find themselves thus lifted suddenly from penury to great wealth, intend to proceed to England, where they have relatives. This adventure is talked of everywhere, and already there are others preparing to follow in their footsteps.

We clipped the above from the Missouri Democrat of December 31st, and was disposed to treat it as a hoax. We have it from a resident of this city who is cognizant of the facts in the case of Mr. Schwartz, and recollects the cause which prevented his second tour through the sewers, and relates it thus: While he was in the vicinity of Stewart's Sugar Refinery, the escape valve for letting of steam was opened and the hot steam penetrated the subterraneous passage, which not only scalded but frightened Mr. Schwartz so that he discontinued his visits. Our informant thinks Mr. Schwartz obtained $80,000. This statement seems to give credence to the above strange adventure.

REPORTED MARRIAGE OF SUSAN DENIN.—There is a well authenticated rumor about town to the effect that Miss Susan Denin, the well known actress, has united her fortunes in marriage with a well known young man named Peter Curley. The ceremony, so the story goes, was performed at the Delevan House, Albany. This is the fourth or fifth time that the "restive" Susan has been married.—Ex.

A SCHOOL TEACHER CRUELLY BEATEN.—A young lady named Haskins, who has been teaching school in the neighborhood of Lake Pleasant, New York, recently undertook to correct a pupil, a little girl, when she was set upon by an elder sister of the pupil and cruelly beaten. She was thrown down and her skull fractured so that she is now a maniac beyond the hope of recovery.

THE "California Comiques," an indecent and obscene "show" that disgraced Chicago for a few days, came speedily to grief when the Post, of that city, brought its batteries to bear upon it. Mr. Woodward, the proprietor of the concern, skedaddled suddenly for New York, taking with him some of the wardrobe and a female attache named La Rue. So says an exchange.

THE Leavenworth Commercial says Julia Dean Hayne Cooper is in New York and will soon appear at the Broadway Theatre. Her present liege lord, Mr. Cooper, is a resident of New York, who has made considerable money in mining in the far West and has been for years a devoted admirer of the lady he has chosen for his wife.

Salt Lake City, November 3, 1866.

Is It an Ex Post Facto Law?

The last and remaining reason assigned in the Legislative Memorial why Congress should repeal the Anti-Polygamy Act, is that it is unconstitutional in that it is an ex post facto law. On this point the Church leaders, both in the pulpit and in their press, secular and lay, dwell with peculiar vehemence. The law is pronounced, in round terms, "unconstitutional, outrageous, unjust, oppressive and unparalleled, the result of misrepresentation, and the emanation of prejudice."

Having in former articles disposed of most of the Whereases of the Memorial which seemed to have plausibility in them, let us see what there is in this ex post facto allegation. In the case of Fletcher v. Peck, Chief Justice Marshall defined an ex post facto law to be one "which renders an act punishable in a manner in which it was not punishable when it was committed." Again, it has been defined to be a retrospective criminal law, affixing or increasing a punishment for an act after its commission. If the members of the Legislature who have sent forth their Memorial will take the law of 1862 and examine it by the rule above given, or any other to be found in the books, they will see how egregiously they have erred in pronouncing the Act unconstitutional on the ground of its being ex post facto.

The very terms of the law show that Congress did not either desire or intend it to have a retroactive effect, but to look only to the future. The first section provides that "every person having a husband or wife living, who shall marry any other person, whether married or single, in a Territory of the United States, or other place over which the United States have exclusive jurisdiction, shall, except in the cases specified in the proviso to this Section, be adjudged guilty of bigamy," etc. Like every other penal law on the statute book, Federal, State or Territorial, the future tense of the verb is used; and if it were otherwise the Courts would hold that as, under the Constitution, no criminal law could have a retroactive effect, this statute would only apply to offences committed after the date of its passage. We are aware that a diligent effort has been made before this Memorial saw the light to impress upon the people of Utah that plural marriages solemnized before the passage of the law were as obnoxious to its provisions as those contracted afterwards. We understand also that the Act has never been printed in the Mormon papers, and the people have therefore formed their ideas of it from the representations which the leaders have chosen to give of it. We, therefore, print it in full in another column, that all may read and reading understand, and we may add our hope, that understanding they may obey—at least until the Memorial shall have reached Washington, and Congress shall have repealed this so-called ex post facto law!

So far as the objection is concerned that the first section is obnoxious to the charge of unconstitutionality, we may say that it is word for word identical with a similar statute against bigamy enacted in every State and Territory of the Union, except Utah. If it is unusual, outrageous, or unconstitutional, nobody outside of Utah has ever yet found it ont, while the punishment affixed to the crime is lighter than that of most other States, or of Great Britain. Regarding the penalty, it is clear that no person could be punished under this law for the crime of bigamy or polygamy, committed prior to its passage. Whether polygamy was an offence in Utah before the enactment of this law, and if so could be punished now by the Courts, is another question about which many may well differ. But the Act of July 1st, 1862, neither in its letter, spirit, scope nor intendment, can be construed to lay a penalty on any deed done before its passage, and hence can in no sense be correctly, plausibly or decently characterized as an ex post facto law. Let not then any misguided person "lay the flattering unction to his soul" that he can violate its provisions and escape the penalty because the law is ex post facto and therefore unconstitutional.

Sections 2 and 3, it will be seen, refer to and repeal the "Ordinance incorporating the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints," at least so far as to restrict its right to hold over fifty thousand dollars worth of real estate. How often and how greatly these sections have been disregarded and set at naught, need not, if it could, be told. Let one traverse the Territory, and from one end of it to the other he will find "Church farms" and the finest mill and timber sites, held, owned, managed and controlled by the Church, by the "Trustee in Trust," by Bishops and other ecclesiastical dignitaries. We suspect that the desire for the repeal of the "Anti-Polygamic" law is as much attributable to Sections 2 and 3 as to inborn affection for the "divine doctrine" of Polygamy. The flesh-pots of Egypt have as fascinating an odor to the Trustee in Trust as to other poor sinful mortals.

COST OF DAMAGES BY FLOOD.—By the recent storm in Nevada, the Union Hotel was more damaged than any other building in the place. The proprietor furnished the Gazette with the following bill of expenses, to which he had been subjected for repairs, from which it appears that a heavy storm is not such a costly affair after all:

Clearing away drift	$1 50
Five pieces lumber	3 60
Three pieces weather-boarding	55
Carpenter's bill	2 75
Re-leveling billiard table	6 50
Sweeping water from dining-room—17 drinks	2 12

Chicago, January 16.

The Legislatures of Illinois and Michigan, ratified the Constitutional Amendment. The Kentucky Legislature balloted for Senator; no choice. Garrett Davis, 34; Prall, 31; Harding, 15; Powell, 7; Hise, 5. The Wisconsin Legislature passed a resolution censuring Doolittle and requesting him to resign.

Washington, January 16.

Senate—Took up the Nebraska bill. Wade moved to concur in the House Amendment. Edmunds hoped the Senate would not concur. He said either Congress had the right to impose conditions of universal suffrage, or it must be left to the people of the Territory for decision. There was no middle ground. Johnson agreed with Edmunds. Hendricks was opposed to all the conditions mentioned, but if any were to be imposed they should be left to the people of the State to comply with. The question was further discussed by Henderson, Morrill and others. Hendricks offered as a substitute for the House amendment, what was known as the Brown amendment. Disagreed to, 18 to 21. The House amendment was then concurred in, yeas 28, nays 14. The nays are Buckalew, Cowan, Dixon, Doolittle, Edmunds, Foster, Harris, Hendricks, Johnson, Nesmith, Norton, Patterson, Riddle, Saulsbury.

House—Considered Stevens' bill for the reconstruction of the rebel States. Payne spoke at length in opposition thereto. He denounced the present State government as a piratical government, which up to this time had rested on the souls of Andrew Johnson and his Northern and Southern satellites, but would henceforth rest on the soul of the rash young gentleman from Pennsylvania (Stevens). It would really seem as if he (Stevens) had for some time longed for the Presidential bread and butter.

Bingham opposed the measure because he recognized the power of the people to establish guarantees, and the safeguard of the people depended on the incorporation into the Constitution of the great amendment proposed by the Reconstruction Committee; that did not prevent further constitutional legislation, but this bill neither stood with the Constitutional Amendment, nor the duty of Congress to give due protection to citizens of the United States within the disorganized States. Let the future safety of the Republic rest on the irrepealable guarantees embodied in the Constitution, and not upon repealable legislation for the insurgent States. He would have the lately rebellious States go and perform acts for the ratification of the Constitutional Amendment, even though they were not regularly organized States, and the ratification of acts subsequently by Congress, would legalize them. As to the Supreme Court, its powers were very limited. Its appealability, rested upon the will of Congress and could readily be taken away. This bill was very offensive to him as it attempted to restrict the right of petition, which the Constitution expressly forbade.

Washington, January 15.

The President issued a proclamation, dated the 12th, sanctioning and confirming the regulation by the United States Minister to Japan forbidding American vessels stopping at anchorage in any of the ports of that country, except the three open ports Naagaski, Hokadadi and Yokohoma during the hostilities between the Tycoon and Daimos unless in distress or forced by stress of weather.

Two colored boys, who escaped from their former master in Montgomery county, Maryland, were yesterday before the Supreme Court. After hearing, the Court ordered them to be returned to their old master, on the ground of evidence that they had been under the Maryland statute, apprenticed after their emancipation. The counsel for the children and the relative pleaded ill-treatment by the master, and that their mother had died from hunger in the woods. After the decision an appeal was taken, but before it could be had the master had departed with the children.

House—The Nebraska bill was taken up. On motion of Mr. Boutwell, the vote seconding the previous question was reconsidered. Mr. Boutwell moved to amend the third section, known as Edmunds' amendment, as follows: And upon further fundamental consideration that the Legislature of said State by solemn oath shall declare the assent of said State to said fundamental condition, and shall transmit to the President of the United States one authentic copy of said Act, upon the receipt whereof the President by proclamation shall forthwith announce the facts, whereupon the said fundamental conditions shall be held as a part of the Organic law of the State, and thereupon, and without further proceeding on the part of Congress, the admission of said State into the Union shall be considered as completed. The said State Legislature shall be convened by the Territorial government within three days after the passage of this Act to act upon the conditions [illegible] herein.

The Herald's special says a report is industriously circulated in New Orleans, that General Sheridan has been in the habit of indorsing letters of marque, issued by Juarez, to prey upon French commerce and guaranteeing to the holders of them the right to fit out in New Orleans, and bring their prizes into that port. The story has been circulated by the friends of the rebel Colonel McIver, who was arrested by Sheridan some time ago as the leader of the Knights of Arabia.

The Times' special says, yesterday the House Committee on Banking and Currency further considered Randall's bill creating a sinking fund and providing for the gradual withdrawal of national bank circulation, but came to no conclusion. The Committee is perfecting this important measure with great care, and it will give rise to a marked contest if it ever reaches the House Ways and Means Committee, who are steadily at work on the tax bill, and have obtained leave to sit during the session of the House. It is not probable, however, that they will agree upon any material reduction of internal taxation, especially in view of the possibility of success of a high tariff. The income tax will not be modified, and the tax on whisky will hardly be reduced below one dollar, which will tend to increase instead of diminish the revenue.

San Francisco, January 9.

This evening's Bulletin says: We are likely to have no special election for Congressmen after all. Governor Low was telegraphed on the subject by our delegation in Congress, who asked him what the people desired. He replied: "In my opinion, a large majority of the people of the State do not desire a special Congressional election."

Last evening a drunken Italian or Greek, frantic with liquor, came rushing down Bush street, armed with a murderous looking knife, with which he slashed at every one he passed, but did not succeed in striking any one, until he came upon W. Liddle, son of R. Liddle, gunsmith, whom he rushed upon with his knife high in air, and when he reached him drove it him with lightning velocity. Liddle threw up his arm and received the weapon in the fleshy part of his right forearm, inflicting a terrible wound. At this moment officer Lyes came up and made after the murderous lunatic, who showed fight and turned upon him, when Lyes drew his pistol and shot him through the right forearm, disabling him completely. The wounded man then ran a short distance, fell, and was then taken to the station house.

The British ship Viscata, from Hongkong, via Kanagawa, now at anchor on the Bar, reports making the passage from the latter place in the unprecedented time of twenty-two days. The present season seems to be prolific in short passages by sailing vessels from Kanagawa, the bark Swallow making it in twenty-six days, the bark Archibald in twenty-five days, and last the Viscata in twenty-two days. The above, when made, were the shortest passages known, and the last runs the steamer time, which is expected to be from eighteen to nineteen days, quite close.

The Anti-Polygamy Law.

Below we give an Act of Congress of July 1, 1862, known as the Anti-Polygamy Law:

An Act to punish and prevent the Practice of Polygamy in the Territories of the United States and other places, and disapproving and annulling certain Acts of the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, in Congress assembled, That every person having a husband or wife living, who shall marry any other person, whether married or single, in a Territory of the United States or other place over which the United States have exclusive jurisdiction, shall, except in the cases specified in the proviso to this Section, be adjudged guilty of bigamy, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, and by imprisonment for a term not exceeding five years. Provided, nevertheless, That this Section shall not extend to any person by reason of any former marriage, whose husband or wife by such marriage, shall have been absent five successive years, without being known to such person within that time to be living; nor to any person by reason of any former marriage which shall have been dissolved by the decree of a competent court; nor to any person by reason of any former marriage which shall have been annulled or pronounced void by the sentence or decree of a competent court on the ground of the nullity of the marriage contract.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the following ordinance of the Provisional Government of the State of Deseret, so-called, namely: "An Ordinance incorporating the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints," passed February eighth, 1851, and adopted, re-enacted and made valid by the Governor and Legislative Assembly of Utah by an Act passed January nineteenth, 1855, entitled "An Act in relation to the compilation and revision of the laws and resolutions in force in the Territory of Utah, their publication and distribution," and all other Acts and parts of Acts heretofore passed by the said Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Utah, which establish, support, maintain, shield, or countenance polygamy, be, and the same are hereby disapproved and annulled: Provided, That this Act shall be so limited and construed as not to affect or interfere with the right of property legally acquired under the Ordinance heretofore mentioned, nor with the right to "Worship God according to the dictates of conscience," but only to annul all Acts and laws which establish, maintain, protect or countenance the practice of Polygamy, evasively called spiritual marriage, however disguised by legal or ecclesiastical solemnities, sacraments, ceremonies, consecrations, or other contrivances.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall not be lawful for any corporation or association for religious or charitable purposes to acquire or hold real estate in any Territory of the United States, during the existence of the Territorial government, of a greater value than fifty thousand dollars; and all real estate acquired or held by any such corporation or association contrary to the provisions of this Act, shall be forfeited and escheat to the United States; Provided, That existing vested rights in real estate shall not be impaired by the provisions of this Section.

Approved July 1, 1862.

COMMENCED.—The erection of the new house of the Hook and Ladder Company, was commenced yesterday. It is being erected on the rear of Walker Bros., adjoining Ross & Barratt's store, on Second South street. We are pleased to know that the citizens are making preparations to obtain a fire engine. It is time that a move should be made in this direction, and by prompt action on the part of those interested much valuable property may be saved in the future.

AGREEABLE.—The warm, sunshiny days, and bright moonlight nights which we are enjoying at present, reminds us of the mild winters of California.

What shall be Done with Them.

Under the above heading the Sacramento Union thus discourses:

Before our late civil war, whenever this question was asked it was taken for granted that it referred to the inevitable African. That knotty problem, however, was solved by the sword, and Sambo is free. What to do with him, now that he is no longer a slave, is still a perplexing question. But Uncle Sam has some other troublesome and wayward children and subjects besides the freedmen and fire-eaters of the South. They are thorns in his side, which begin to prick considerably, and will not permit our venerable relation much longer to ignore their existence. The Indian man has on his war paint and feathers, and threatens fiercely as to what he will do if further invasion is made upon his hunting grounds by the irrepressible whites.

Mormonism is at present a most threatening evil, and is about to prove itself a sore trouble for Congress and the powers that be. It is a strange delusion, one of the unexplainable phenomena of the nineteenth century. Steeped in licentiousness and treason, it still flourishes, despite the American power, civil and military, and, like Nebuchadnezzar of old, boasts of the mighty city and commonwealth it has erected in the wilderness of the Interior. Its Jordan and Canaan are presented to the citizens of the old world as the promised land that flows with milk and honey, and the only place of rest for the wearied dweller of earth. Thousands believe this, and notwithstanding the long and perilous sea and land voyage they travel toward their Mount Zion. Nor may Americans laugh at the ignorant foreigner because he is so easily duped. It is only last week that we read in our California papers that in Stockton, where a general religious revival, set in motion by Earle the Evangelist, has been in progress for weeks, the Mormons are also baptizing their converts by the half score. And so probably will it be here. For like causes may be expected to produce like results. As long as Brigham Young and his followers confined themselves to their legitimate province and work of polygamy, and personal exclusiveness, no one seemed to care or to ask to what all this would grow in time. Occasionally the too plain talking of treason and defiance against the Federal authorities would wake up the slumbers at Washington, but the laboring mountain generally subsided after producing a ridiculous mouse. Military expeditions, involving millions of cost, have been sent to Mormondom again and again, but the general result has been to fill the pockets of the contents and make them bolder and more shameless in their insults toward all Gentiles. The "Danites" seem to be once more on the war path, and murders are to be the order of the day. The mockery of investigations by Coroners or Courts is as apparent as it is appalling. The very murderers sit upon the juries and bring in the verdict, "cause of death unknown." The President and Congress seem to be awakening to the importance of this subject. They are satisfied that something must be done. So the one sends a detective officer, we are told, to investigate and find out facts which are as patent as the noonday light of the sun. And Senator Howard of Michigan, as we are informed by telegraph, prescribes this panacea for existing and threatened ills:

"To amend the bill relative to the selection of grand and petit jurors in Utah. The amendment makes it a misdemeanor to solemnize marriage unless authorized; also, that no man shall claim the society or services of any woman without marriage, or by the sealing ceremony conducted without her consent. All children, the fruit of any such unauthorized union, shall be heirs of the mother and not of the father. It also gives power to the woman to sue for services during any such falsified marriage. All persons present at or assisting such ceremony are to be deemed guilty of misdemeanor. All such cases are to be heard and tried by the District Court."

All this might be effectual in California or most of the States of the Union. But what will Young and his followers care about such a law when they have the whole matter in their own hands as jurors, if not as Judges? We hardly believe that Senator Howard has answered the question wisely, "What shall be done with them?" If a word from the Pacific coast might have weight, we would advise simply this: Let there be an efficient military force stationed in or near Salt Lake City with General Sherman as a resident there for a year or two. Let him inform Young that he will hold him personally responsible for all future outrages and murders, unless the perpetrators be forthcoming and punished. If there be future, as there unquestionably is present, evidence that he knowingly conceals the miscreants, then take Young and Kimball and board them for a while at the same hotel at Fortress Monroe that is now honored by the illustrious chieftain of the late Confederacy. Some such policy as this will do for the present. The rapid approach of the iron horse from the East and West will in a few years solve the problem so far as the Mormons are concerned. An influx of Gentiles will take possession of the promised land, outvote the Saints, and either compel them to behave civilly or to emigrate to some other locality. So mote it be.
